'Continental weather' affecting London's air quality' claim mayor's office

By Peter Henn

THE Mayor of London's office has claimed London's poor air quality is down to winds being blown over from the continent.

Although London has been allowed to defer complying with EU regulations, Boris Johnson's office has said that continental weather was to blame.

A spokesman said: "Around 60 per cent of the pollution, even at the side of the busiest roads, came from outside London, much of it blown in on easterly winds from continental Europe."

Campaign groups and the European Union have debunked the Mayor's claims.

Simon Birkett, of Clean Air in London, said the reasoning was flawed.

He explained: "It's just excuses. When you actually look at the prevailing conditions, the majority of days – about 300 out of 365 – we end up blowing our pollution over to the continent."

HEROIN SUPPLY GANG JAILED FOR 34 YEARS

FOUR men have been sentenced to a total of 34 years at Snaresbrook Crown Court after being convicted of conspiracy to supply heroin with a street value of more than £400,000.

The court heard how the gang were being tracked by specialist Metropolitan Police officers when they were spotted driving in two separate vehicles to an address in Woodford High Road.

The four include Shane Drew, 23, of Beck Road, Hackney, who received nine years imprisonment.

Wale Edeh, 27, of Westrow Drive, Barking, received six years and nine months imprisonment.

Charles Jimmy, 27, of Effra Parade, Brixton, received nine years imprisonment.

Hamad Khan, 22, of Fraser Road, Edmonton, received 10 years plus a further four years to run consecutively for an unrelated matter.

Drew, Edeh and Jimmy were seen entering a property before leaving with a large bag to approach Khan, who had been waiting in a vehicle nearby.

Officers stopped the four and discovered that the bag contained three large blocks of heroin while Edeh was in possession of a stun gun.

An additional search of Drew's address revealed further class A drugs and £1,000 in cash. In total the drugs seized were valued at £400,000 if they had reached the streets.

Cars damaged

TWO vehicles travelling along the A13 at Barking were damaged when items were thrown onto their cars from the footway above.

The incidents happened on October 29, 2011 and January 27, 2012.

If you know anything, call DC Richard Lewsley on 020 3276 1049 or call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Street party funds

FOLLOWING last year's success, residents and groups who wish to hold a St Georges Day street party can apply for a £450 grant.

The closing date for applications is Wednesday, February 29.

WINNERS: Joseph Guy, Elizabeth Palfreman and William Kadet from Barking College.

Winning T-shirt prints picked for hospice's Star Trek walk

ART and design students have been busy using their creative flair to produce designs for T-shirts for Saint Francis Hospice's legendary Star Trek Walk.

Students from Barking College took part in a challenge to come up with designs for the T-shirts and medals.

Hospice fundraisers Elizabeth Palfreman and Lauren Josman visited the college last Thursday to pick the winners.

The students had two weeks to produce their designs and the winning T-shirt entry was produced by Joseph Guy, from Dagenham.

Joseph said: "This will be a great opportunity for me to see my design being worn by so many people."

Fellow student William Kadet, 18, from Dagenham, had his design chosen for the Star Trek medals.

William said: "It was an honour to create a design that will be used by the hospice."

Hospice fundraiser Elizabeth Palfreman said: "We were impressed with the hard-work that all the students had put in to come up with unique and eye-catching designs."

Elizabeth said this year's Star Trek walk will be the biggest ever and takes place in Romford on Saturday, July 7.

Places are still available. Visit www.sfh.org.uk or call 01708 753319.

Grow your own on community hub

A NEW community food growing hub will open next to Central Park this spring, on the site of the old nursery.

The site is being run as a social enterprise and urban farm by the group Growing Communities.

Organic food grown on site by volunteers will be sold locally, giving the people of Barking and Dagenham the chance to buy healthy fruit and vegetables at reasonable prices.

Residents will also have the chance to get involved with the project, and help out with the work on the farm.

Allotment sites

TWO new allotment sites are due to open this year - Thatches Grove in Mark's Gate and Linkway in Dagenham.

The sites are being opened by Barking and Dagenham Council in response to an increased demand for allotment plots across the country.

Last year the council gave all its allotment sites extra protection by declaring them Statutory Allotment Land. The move means they can only be converted from allotment use with the written permission of the Secretary of State.

Council on course to meet mayor's challenge

BARKING and Dagenham has allocated 33 community food growing sites after taking up the Mayor of London's challenge to find 40.

The remaining seven are expected to be allocated later this year. The sites are in places such as schools, children's centres and blocks of flats.

It represents 33 groups of people who are growing healthy food on their doorsteps.

Cash in now before solar payment cut

PEOPLE have just three weeks to cash in by installing solar panels that contribute to the national grid and save on bills.

The Government has decided 'feed in tariffs' - money paid to users of solar panels for electric - will be reduced by half on Saturday, March 3.

The deadline will see the rate reduced from 43 pence to 21 pence per kilowatt-hour of energy. Any fitting before then will get the higher rate for 25 years.

The benefit follows a ruling on Wednesday, January 25, at the Court of Appeal.

Judges upheld a High Court judgement that Government's plans to cut the tariff before March 3, were illegal due to a solar energy consultation in December not being completed.

Christine Hindle, director of Gytech Solar Ltd, explained the solar industry had seen a massive loss in orders because people did not think they were getting a fair deal under the proposal in December.

She said: "People thought it was a wonderful scheme so started to order panels.

"When people found out the Government was trying to halve the amount they would get for using solar panels in December there was a massive amount of cancellations."

If people have the energy saving devices fitted before the deadline they will be entitled to the 43 pence rate for the next 25 years.

Christine added: "People need to take advantage of the scheme before the start of March to make sure they get the better deal.

"Even when it gets halved it is still a good deal because it lasts for 25 years.

"Installing solar panels can be paid for in five years then the next 20 are pure profit."

Caroline Allen, Green Party candidate for the GLA, said the reduction was a 'blow' for the fight against climate change.

She said: "With millions in fuel poverty we need a government ready to invest and support new means of energy generation.

"Already many other countries are streets ahead of us but the UK government is determined to maintain our dangerous addiction to fossil fuels."

A typical system costs about £8,000 and takes between five to 10 years to pay for itself, depending on the south facing view.

Typically, the panels take a day to install.

UNHAPPY: Tony Khan, from Trade Solar Warehouse, is unhappy at the government cuts.

£190m Beckton sewage works upgrade project

BECKTON Becky, a state-of-the-art tunnelling machine, has been lowered into position 20 metres below ground, as part of a £190m project to extend one of Europe's largest sewage treatment works.

Beckton sewage works is being upgraded so the site can treat 60 per cent more sewage.

The improvements are part of a major drive to clean up the river Thames.

At the moment, sewage is discharged into the river during heavy rainfall.

The expansion, which started in spring 2010 is due for completion in 2014.

Beckton Becky will spend the next two months tunnelling 750 metres below the sewage works.

A 350-strong workforce remains on site and have finished creating over half of the storage tanks.

Nick Fawcett, Thames Water's head of delivery, said: "This is an important milestone towards our goal of creating a cleaner, healthier River Thames, by dealing with the unacceptable problem of sewage discharges into the river during heavy rainfall."

Regeneration plans to go on public display in Basildon

Members of the general public will be given the opportunity to voice their opinions on a major proposal to regenerate Basildon town centre.

Plans for the £1 billion revamp of the town centre which would include a new market, hotel, cinema, college and up to 2,000 new homes, including many affordable homes, will go on show in mid-February.

Eight areas in Basildon town centre have been earmarked for a major overhaul, including East Square, Broadmayne, the Eastgate Centre, Town Square and St Martin's Square.

According to the plans by developers Barratt Wilson Bowden, between 1,500 and 2,000 new homes will be built, along with 25,000 square metres of offices and 40,000 square metres of retail and leisure space.

Basildon Borough Council has described its plans for the next 20 years as "one of the biggest town centre redevelopments in the country".

The council said the first phase of work could be completed by 2017.

Large scale infrastructural projects generally presents property investors with a good opportunity to cash-in on improvements made to an area.

Fortunately, a number of housebuilders are already hard at work developing new and improved homes in Basildon.

Persimmon Homes is developing a collection of two-three- and four-bedroom houses at Church Park. Prices range from £160,000 to £199,995.

Barratt Homes is building one- and two-bedroom homes at a development called Axis, with prices starting from £125,000.

Beechwood Village is Swan New Homes newest development in Essex offering a mix of contemporary one- and two-bedroom apartments and two-, three- and four-bedroom homes. Prices range from £168,000 to £234,000.

Housebuilder Weston Homes is also catering to the high demand for new homes in Essex by launching the latest phase of 112 one- and two-bedroom luxury apartments at their Morello Quarter development in Basildon.

The new phase will comprise 425 luxury one- and two-bedroom apartments, with prices ranging from £129,000 to £165,000. Designer Kitchens with a range of integrated appliances and luxurious bathrooms with en-suites have been fitted in many of the apartments. The development also includes communal landscaped gardens, courtyard, terraces and secure undercroft allocated car parking.

The early sales success achieved at these developments suggest that buying a new home in Essex during the off-plan stage of construction is finally starting to prove popular again. This presents homebuyers with an opportunity to potentially secure a new home at a discount on the retail property price, particularly during the early phases of construction.
